As Colton White, a vengeful gunslinger, you must straddle the line between good and evil in a showdown against corrupt lawmen, a murderous preacher, renegade army psychopaths, merciless outlaws and relentless warring tribes. Along the way, you'll wage war on horseback, collect bounties and protect prostitutes. GAMEPLAY TIPS & STRATEGY

GUN Quickdraw Mode

Press the R2 button to start Quickdraw mode to get more time and accuracy when lining up a critical shot. Once initiated, Colton's reflexes and gunfighting skills go into slow-motion with the view zoomed in, allowing for more precise targeting.

When you first press the R2 button, the flashing yellow Quickdraw bar appears on-screen and depletes at a steady rate. You can increase the Quickdraw bar by eliminating enemies. Accuracy shots such as a headshot or disarm also increase Quickdraw.

GUN Zoom Firing

Press the R3 button to access Zoom Firing. This zooms in your view so you can more accurately target and hit enemies. By zooming, you can snipe and engage large groups of enemies from a safe distance that would normally be too difficult for a direct assault. You can zoom with bows, rifles and sharpshooters.

The amount of zoom varies depending upon the weapon:

Rifles: Rifles have high-level zoom with the rifle barrel and aiming sights visible.

Sharpshooter: Sharpshooter rifles have a tighter zoom than rifles.

Using Cover

Use objects, rocks or buildings in the world to provide cover when being attacked. Use cover wisely to catch your breath, create a strategy, time your shots and provoke enemies, all while being reasonably protected.

Working with Allies

Use allies (posse members, gang members, Apaches, townspeople, etc.) to aid in attacking enemies and completing objectives. Be sure to protect allies when possible, because they are vital to the success of some missions.

SIDE MISSIONS

Along his path, Colton will encounter a variety of side missions in the West. He can earn money by helping out farmers, assisting the local sheriff, keeping regular citizens out of harm's way and even hiding a card up his sleeve and playing some Hold 'Em. Side missions are also vital in upgrading Colton's skills. The side missions are listed below and come up in random places on Colton's journey.

Pony Express – Use your trusty horse to deliver items and get from place to place, all within the allotted time.

Ranching – Earn some money and hone your horse-riding skills by helping local farmers corral up their livestock.

Bounty Hunting – Every town in the Wild West had outlaws running rampant, with the tagline, "Wanted: Dead or Alive." Catch these outlaws to bring some order to the West and money in your pocket.

Mining – The West was built on opportunity, dreams and gold. In your travels, you may come across gold no one else has found. Make sure you have a pickaxe handy, or that nugget you see may be nothing but Fool's Gold.

Poker – You can work for your money, or you can just win it from the local gamblers in the saloon. Out-bluff your competition in a Texas Hold 'Em tournament. Play your cards right, and you'll come up all Aces.

Keep the Peace – Every sheriff in the West could use an extra hand. Help out the local deputies by stopping trouble before it starts and flushing out the bad guys in each town.

Hunting – The Old West wasn't wild just because of the people. Even the animals wanted a piece of the action. Hunt animals that come across your path, and maybe everyone will get dinner tonight.

Rescue – With outlaws running around, it's tough to catch 'em all, especially when they take innocent people hostage. Stop the criminals from running roughshod and rescue the victims by defending towns, taking out the bandits and keeping people safe.

CHARACTERS

Colton White

Colton White grew up in the wilderness of the Wild West, learning the ways of the Mountain Man from his father, Ned, who taught young Colton how to trap, ride horses and shoot game. As the two of them journey the territory together, they encounter a steamboat, and Colton's life will never be the same. Colton is driven on a quest to discover who he is. In the process, he ends up learning a lot more about himself, Ned and all the people he meets on his journey. Colton will work inside and outside the law, doing anything it takes to get the answers he's looking for.

Jenny

When her mother passed away, Jenny assumed the role as hostess of Dodge City's bustling brothel, "The Alhambra," and became renowned for her stunning beauty and caustic wit. Jenny is equal parts charm and attitude, but she also knows how to use a shotgun when necessary. When Jenny meets Colton and learns why he has come to Dodge to find her, she joins Colton on his quest to get some answers for herself.

Thomas Magruder

Thomas Magruder served for the "other side" in the Civil War, eventually relocating to the West before the Confederacy fell completely to the Union. Out West, he used his considerable power and authority to make himself into a railroad and mining magnate and roams his holdings in the New Mexico territory in the custom cars of his gilded "Black Train." He exudes arrogance but strikes fear into the hearts of those around him. Much like Colton, Magruder is on a quest of his own that has consumed him since the War. He's determined to complete this quest, no matter who or what gets in his way.

Hoodoo Brown

He's the mayor, justice of the peace and coroner of the territory's bustling centerpiece city: Empire, New Mexico. Hoodoo runs his town like a king, basking in his notoriety and enforcing the "law" as he sees fit. His deputies enforce his will, making sure any "troublemakers" meet their fate at the end of a very short rope.

Hollister

More monster than man according to some, Hollister disappeared mysteriously during the Civil War. Rumor has it his tactics were so brutal, generals feared him and his men. He recently reappeared as the scarred commander of a renegade fort somewhere in the northern country.
