ALICE

Alice grew up deprived of happiness, due to her childhood kidnapping by a secret research institution that conspires to use zoanthropes as weapons. After awakening to her latent powers through being subjected to physical experimentation, she was used as a test subject and given battle training. However, she managed to escape from the institution just before a brainwashing that would have left her as a combat automaton; instead, she succeeded in getting the freedom she had long sought. At first, all she could do was hide herself from her pursuers. As she recovered her composure, she began to worry about a girl who had been sharing the hard lot of the institution and who loves Alice like her sister. Because the girl sacrificed herself by distracting Alice's pursuers during the escape, the girl failed to get away. To save this girl from the enemy, Alice decided to come out of hiding, fight her pursuers and foil the scheme to develop armed zoanthropes.
